moned in haste, the members of the cabinet returned to Downing Street. The Prime Minister and the Chancellor of the Exchequer were joined in their conference with Liberal and Conservative party spokesmen by five other members of the Ministry—Baron Selkirk, Lord Chancellor, Rt. Hon. Wedgwood Benn, Secretary for India; Lord Amulree, Secretary for Air; Rt. Hon. Tom Shaw, Minister of War, and H. B. Lees-Smith, President of the Board of Education.

DOLE LIMITS

Reports to-day said the government's economy scheme included a proposal to put a time limit of twenty-six weeks on the payment of "transitional benefits" which are sums in excess of the expiry of the period of ordinary benefits that are covered by the beneficiary's contributions to the dole fund when he was employed. The transitional benefit is the "dole" part of the unemployment insurance scheme, as it is not covered by any contributions to the fund. And to the government's time limit the Trades Union Council is objecting.

FIRE CREWS IN FIGHT FOR TOWN

Battle to Save Placerville, Idaho, After Other Towns Burned

Canadian Press
Boise, Idaho, Aug. 21.—A force of 200 fighters held a forest fire at bay as it surged and roared within a half-mile of the town of Placerville to-day.

The fire, with two towns already in its maw, was quiet during the night, but the crews expressed concern over what might come before this evening in the form of winds and high temperatures, to spur the fire on.

The telephone operator at Placerville said:

"We can hold it for a while, anyway."

Guy B. Mais, supervisor of the Boise Forest, telephoned from Placerville that trenching operations were progressing rapidly and unless a wind developed similar to that of yesterday afternoon it would be possible to hold the flames from the town.

Many residents of the place fled to the bottom lands to join the band of 300 refugees already driven out. Forty families fled from Quartzburg, which was burned yesterday afternoon by the flames which destroyed most of the little town of Granite Creek.

LOSE JOBS

Red Cross officials from Boise investigated the condition of the refugees, most of whom lost everything in the flames, even their jobs, for the Gold Hill and Idaho Mines, which furnished employment for a large portion of the town of Quartzburg, was burned with $500,000 loss.

Destruction of the mine was a bitter blow to settlers in the Boise basin, many of which had looked expectantly to the profitable operation of the deep quartz gold mine as an indication of a return of flush times in the basin that once was so thickly populated by gold-hunting miners.

Crews were trenching to-day around the Belshazar and Mayflower mines, near Quartzburg.

Reports to the little store in Placerville, the centre of operations, and to the Boise forest office, indicated no one had been trapped in the flames or seriously injured.

RUTH NICHOLS HAS PLANE READY FOR ATLANTIC HOP

Canadian Press
New York, Aug. 21.—Ruth Nichols to-day had clearance papers for her monoplane, with her destination listed as "Paris, France, via Harbor Grace."

Under the specification "nature of cargo" was listed "one pair silk stockings."

Whether issuance of the papers yesterday might mean an early new start in her long-planned transatlantic flight could not be determined to-day.

Miss Nichols injured her back June 22 at St. John, N.B., when her plane cracked up as she was bound for Paris.

Miss Nichols (left) has been flying for eight years. Her machine (above) is a Lockheed Vega monoplane with a Pratt and Whitney motor supercharged to 650 horsepower. At the start of the Atlantic flight it is expected to do 175 miles an hour, increasing to more than 200 miles an hour as its load of gasoline is lightened.

PACT TO END POWER STRIKE

Montreal Men to Return to Work; Three Alleged Dynamiters Held

Canadian Press
Montreal, Aug. 21.—It was reported early this afternoon that at a meeting between officials of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated and the committee of striking linemen, an agreement was drawn up and accepted by both parties, under which the men will return to work. No details were immediately available.

About 175 linemen went on strike August 6 in protest against the Canadian Electrical Trades Union of Linemen and Helpers.

The three men were to be arraigned in police court this afternoon.

Since the strike started two weeks ago there have been frequent attacks on power transmission lines, causing great expense to the company and inconvenience to the city. Six transmission towers carrying hydro-electric lines were dynamited and numerous transformers put out of commission.

EMPLOYEE MADE DISCOVERY

While an army of private guards cooperated with provincial and city police in guarding the property, none of the offenders had been apprehended and no arrests made until yesterday evening. It remained for an alert employee of the company to make the first progress toward solving the mystery. Information from him led to the arrest of the three men.

Political Truce In New Zealand; Election Soon

Canadian Press Cable via Reuters
Wellington, N.Z., Aug. 21.—A political truce in New Zealand and financial emergency in New Zealand was effected to-day.

The House of Representatives, on a motion of Premier G. W. Forbes, set up a special committee of ten members—three from each of the main parties and one independent.

The House then adjourned. A general election is expected early in October.

A motion by Hon. J. G. Coates, opposition leader, which was carried by the House, was to "bring to the attention of the House the economic and financial position of the country and to advise the government on the question of adjustment of national expenditure, and to provide for the reduction of expenditure and distribution of the burdens."

INQUIRY ON SHIP ON PASSENGER'S DISAPPEARANCE

New York, Aug. 21.—Assistant United States Attorney J. Edward Lumbard boarded the liner Belgeland to-day when it arrived here from Halifax and questioned members of the crew and passengers about the mysterious disappearance from the vessel last week of Himeishi Fujimura, wealthy Japanese silk importer.

Disembarkation was held up several minutes while persons whom Mr. Lumbard had designated for the inquiry were being segregated from the crowd at the gangway by ship's officers.

Among those picked up by Lumbard was Jan Ribas, an artist, employed by the liner to make sketches of passengers. Ribas said that late on Wednesday evening of last week, or early Thursday morning, about twenty-four hours before the man's disappearance, he heard the importer berating a woman in his stateroom "for flirting with other men."

so far in five years. Victoria should be a great asset to it. Such a church is a great asset to our city."

The Bishop signed his name on the visitors' register at the Cathedral. After his golf game this morning the Bishop would not be drawn into a discussion of more serious things. He did drop a note of optimism, however, on present conditions.

"Things are pretty dull, especially on the prairie," he said. "But I'm sure it is only temporary, and the country will come through it better than ever."

"Do you think the Old Country is as well off as Canada just now?" he was asked.

"Well we have a different situation over there," was his reply.

After his golf game this morning the Bishop was to visit Stanley Park this afternoon. To-night he addresses the Canadian Club. After his fishing trip to-morrow he will preach at the cathedral on Sunday.

LINDBERGH AT WORK ON MOTOR

Vacationists' Plane at Muroton Bay, Japan, Where It Was Towed By Ship

Canadian Press
Nemuro, Japan, Aug. 21.—The Lindbergh monoplane progressed another notch toward Nemuro to-day at the end of a tow rope.

After having been stranded since early Wednesday because of fog and motor trouble off Kotel Island, the "black hole" of the Kurile archipelago, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh were forced to accept the aid of the government steamship Shimushu Maru in getting their helpless plane to an anchorage off the coast of the wild little island 410 miles northeast of here.

They reported by radio to-day they were being towed to Muroton Bay, Shimushu Island, fifteen miles southwest of Kotel. A later message announced the arrival of the ship and plane at Muroton Bay. Colonel Lindbergh said he would spend two or three hours working on the motor and then give it a test.

HIS WORST NIGHT

Incidentally the colonel, who never has said much about the perils of his famous solo flight from New York to Paris in May, 1927, disclosed that his first night aloft in his plane in the treacherous currents of Kotel was "the worst I have ever experienced."

Mrs. Lindbergh shared that experience with him. They remained throughout the night in the cramped quarters of the plane, a few hundred feet from the rocky shore, which doubtless would have ground their plane to pieces had it got within reach.

Thursday night, their second at Kotel, also furnished its quota of terrors, but the Shimushu Maru, having arrived early Thursday morning, was standing by. The ship towed the plane to another anchorage off the island, the tow line parting several times during the journey. On one occasion the plane narrowly escaped disaster on the rocks.

OTTAWA BUSY WORKING OUT DETAILS OF MAGAZINE TAX

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—Compilation by officers of the Department of National Revenue of lists of magazines which will be subject to or exempt from the operation of the so-called magazine tax was in progress to-day, but it will be upward of a fortnight before the list is ready for publication. The acquisition of all the information required in order that the various periodicals may be classified under the provisions of the Customs Act amendment is a task of great labor and is greatly involved. Foreign publishers have been requested to furnish the department with statements showing the character of their various publications, the advertising content thereof and such other particulars as are governed by the tariff definitions. In many cases the information has been readily supplied. In others, magazine publishers have been somewhat tardy and have thus forced the department to make the classification. However, since the operation of those items of the tariff schedule become operative on September 1, officials hope to be able to have all necessary data in the hands of collectors of customs around that date.

When the application of the tariff to comic and fiction supplements of foreign newspapers will become effective could not be learned. This will not come into force until proclaimed by the Governor-General.

A Department of Civil Aviation has been created by the Brazilian Government to control airmail service in that country.

RATES OF PAY FOR RELIEF WORKS AGREED ON TO-DAY

WORK ON ISLAND

As a result of this morning's conference it was agreed to start work immediately on the Transcanada Highway between Victoria and the Alberta boundary, via Kamloops and Revelstoke.

At the same time work will be started on the southern transprovincial highway, via Crow's Nest, Princeton and Hope. Active work on the Hope-Princeton road will start in this new artery to the interior, will be continued.

Work on the northern highway between Prince Rupert and the Yellowhead Pass is expected to relieve unemployment in districts through which it passes.

Specific agreement was reached for work along the North Thompson River, part of the highway between Kamloops and Tye Jaune Cache, on the Island Highway between Nanaimo and Alberni and in the Atlin district.

PROGRAMME SENT TO OTTAWA

While those mentioned are the only projects agreed on at present between the federal and provincial governments, Mr. Bruhn emphasizes that the province has a general programme of highway construction before the Ottawa authorities for consideration. This programme touches almost every important road in the province. Approval must await the return of Mr. Stevens to Ottawa.

Camps are being established on the Hope-Princeton route, on the North Thompson River and also near Prince Rupert. Additional camps will be established on the Big Bend work between Revelstoke and Golden. Work at those points will begin immediately.

Vancouver, Aug. 21.—A big blue sedan, whose four occupants had figured in nearly a score of holdups in Vancouver during the last week, sped yesterday evening and early this morning, leaving at least a half-dozen more reported holdups in its wake.

BRITISH NOTE ISSUE EXTENDED

London, Aug. 21.—Chancellor Philip Snowden this evening authorized extension of the fiduciary duty on the issue of £275,000,000 ($1,375,000,000) of new Treasury notes, which was raised August 1, for a further period of three weeks.

Authorization for the extension was given on representations from the Bank of England.

STEVENS HEARD IN VANCOUVER

glected trade opportunities in the Orient.

Taking up the subject of unemployment, Mr. Stevens began by answering the often asked question: "What is being done to relieve unemployment?"

"The Dominion Government, co-operating with provincial and local authorities, is planning to give employment to the existing workers in China and in return to give them food, shelter and reasonable but moderate remuneration," he said. "The Dominion Government has the Dominion was undertaking expensive public works which will be paid for wholly by them. They will co-operate with provincial governments in a general scheme of road improvement and in other operations on which they may act jointly."

TRADE CHANCES

Speaking of trade with the Orient, Mr. Stevens said:

"Realizing and believing this room for expansion we have taken steps to open additional facilities in the Orient by establishing two trade commissioner offices, one in Nanking and one in Dairen, in China, in addition to the existing offices in Hongkong and Shanghai, as well as those in Japan. It is hopeless, however, for the government to provide these facilities if the merchants and manufacturers in which Canada do not themselves make personal direct contact in these foreign countries and develop their own trade connections."

To illustrate his contention in regard to Oriental trade, Mr. Stevens quoted extensive figures. Leaving aside Canada's sales to China of lead, fish, butter, wheat, flour, timber, and motor cars, Mr. Stevens showed how the Dominion was lagging behind the United States in getting its share of exports in other lines. The figures showed, he said, the narrow range in which Canada was operating and the vast opportunity which lay in China for expansion.

CANADA SHOULD PREPARE

"From these figures it is abundantly clear to all thoughtful persons that there is existing in China a market for Canadian goods which is not being secured by Canada. It is not securing its reasonable share, due to lack of enterprise on the part of its people," concluded the Minister.

"They should too, that in the near future this market across the Pacific will be tremendously expanded and opened up. Canada should be prepared to take its full share in that trade."

WOMEN TO BE ASSISTED FROM RELIEF FUND

to unemployed, needy women the same measure of assistance as is being given to men.

The meeting gave the delegation, for which Mrs. H. P. Hodges acted as spokesman, a sympathetic hearing, and it was unanimously decided to include needy women among the beneficiaries of the fund.

H. W. Hart sponsored the resolution for assistance for cases of destitution among unemployed men who are physically unable to work.

Discussion of the campaign elicited the comment from Fred Landberg, campaign manager, that more help was urgently needed in canvassing, and he appealed to the men to get behind the movement.

SHOULD CANVASS WEALTHY

Mr. Steele, a member of the committee which has been actively engaged in canvassing, after recounting the discouraging results of his appeal in certain sections of the residential district, observed that in his opinion the campaign had lagged because the committee had departed from their original line of canvassing.

"Instead of trying to line up the little man who is all too often working on reduced hours and reduced wages and facing an uncertain future, we should adhere to the original plan of appealing to men who are known to be wealthy," Mr. Steele said.

In agreeing with the speaker, Sir Frank Barnard declared that in accordance with that idea, he had approached a number of wealthy men, but with a few exceptions he had met with failure, the response being most discouraging. He suggested that further attempts should be made to enlist the active co-operation of these citizens.

A request for suggestions for help in the campaign drew from Rev. Father Evans the suggestion that full publicity be given to the activities of the committee, the plan of distribution of the fund and those whom it was intended to assist. It was also suggested that lists be published daily of those who have subscribed, a plan which will be adopted.

SHANGHAI, AUG. 21.—Reports received here to-day added to the totals of deaths from a flood wave of 410,000 Chinese having drowned and millions of dollars' worth of property having been destroyed by floods sweeping over vast territory in what may prove to be one of the greatest calamities of the kind in modern times.

The swollen Yangtze has taken its heavy toll of life and left 30,000,000 homeless.

CHINA FLOOD IS BIGGEST DISASTER IN MODERN TIMES

Washington, Aug. 21.—Flood waters in China's fertile valley of the Yangtze River may be churning up one of the worst calamities of the age. Chinese reports on the disaster, interpreted by U.S. Red Cross officials, indicate the flood is the greatest catastrophe the country has ever faced. "Perhaps it will rank as the greatest in the world," said Ernest J. Swift, assistant director of insular and foreign operations of the Red Cross, "not as reckoned in terms of loss of life, but in the number of people affected. It is estimated 31,000,000 people are affected and that 10,000,000 are homeless and destitute."

MAN JAILED IN WASHINGTON FOR KNIFE KILLING

South Bend, Wash., Aug. 21.—Stabbed twenty-three times, the body of Robert Carlson, thirty-three, member of a pioneer Willapa Harbor family, lay here to-day, and the self-confessed assailant, Leo Bezemer, fifty-one, was in the Pacific County jail.

Carlson resided about a mile east of Raymond and Bezemer, a bachelor, was his neighbor. There had been a quarrel for some time over range pastures. Last week Carlson's dog died of poisoning. Yesterday afternoon Carlson met Bezemer on the road near the Carlson place and during further argument, accused Bezemer of killing the animal.

A fight ensued in which Bezemer drew a long knife and stabbed Carlson many times.

In the Willapa salt mines at Crocker there are altars, shrines and statues made of salt.

Walkie Contestant Tells Court About His Laughing Fit

Montreal, Aug. 21.—"Goodness" on the part of walkathon contestants in the Mount Royal Arena here was limited to a laughing fit on the part of Thomas McBride, contestant No. 6. McBride testified before Mr. Justice Denis in superior court yesterday at the hearing of the injunction application brought against the city by the walkathon promoter after the show had been closed by police. The contest had been in operation eight days when closed last week.

McBride denied he had seen "green snakes" or "wildcats" when fatigue overtook him during the long walk around the arena. He admitted the laughing fit, but declared that when it was over he was quite ready to resume the walk. McBride said he felt no ill-effects from his efforts. He denied he had seen any "dope" administered to contestants. Certainly, he said, he had taken none. Nor had he seen any immorality.

His medical chart, placed in evidence, showed strychnine had been administered to him six times, being ordered by the physician attached to the show to contestants with a weak pulse.

CRIMINAL CODE CHANGE URGED

Toronto, Aug. 21.—Repeal of section ninety-eight of the Criminal Code of Canada was urged at a meeting of the Toronto District Labor Council yesterday evening. It was that section under which the recent arrests of communist leaders here were made. The measure would have a direct effect on the trade union movement in Canada, said one delegate. He feared it might hinder the progress of trade unions.

A resolution urging the Trades Union Congress at its forthcoming convention in Vancouver to press for "public ownership and democratic management of all public utilities" was passed.

Crime Cost To U.S. Yearly Is $1,000,000,000

Washington, Aug. 21.—The Wickersham Commission placed the annual cost of crime in the United States at beyond $1,000,000,000.

Its latest report gives no lump sum estimate, but contains a series of staggering statistics which even in their conceded incompleteness show a tremendous toll taken yearly by the operations of criminals.

Prohibition is named in the 637-page document, made public to-day after resting for at least a week on President Hoover's bookshelf, as a heavy contributor to this high cost.

It is estimated that $34,228,550, or two-thirds of all the government funds appropriated for the administration of federal criminal justice during the year 1929-30, was expended toward prohibition enforcement alone.

IDAHO GHOST TOWNS RAZED

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 21.—Quartzburg and Granite Creek, ghost towns with histories dating back to the earliest mining era of Idaho, were in ashes to-day and a third town, Placerville, was in danger as the result of widespread forest fires.

Near Placerville 300 refugees, driven from their homes in the past, were huddled on a sand flat fringed by the blaze. A fourth town, Centerville, was for a time completely encircled by fire, but this morning was believed safe.

The loss at Quartzburg was estimated by authorities at $500,000. The equipment of a gold mine which had employed most of the town's 200 residents was destroyed. There was $100,000 insurance on the property.

Under a driving wind the Quartzburg fire broke out of control yesterday and swept down the canyon of three sides of the town. Sensing the danger, all but two of the inhabitants had fled. The remaining pair, Fred Daly, postmaster, and Mrs. Daly, remained in their stone house while flames reduced the rest of the village to ashes. They were not hurt. The Daly home and three other buildings were the only ones left standing.

The four townsites are on a closely-knit mass of little creeks which in the early days yielded gold to the wielders of the pick and pan.

FRENCH PRESS SEES LITTLE IN WIGGIN REPORT

Paris, Aug. 21.—Le Matin and Excelsior, both newspapers and widely-read papers, gave extended consideration to the report of the Wiggins committee yesterday.

"The experts happily refrained from touching on problems outside their competence," said Le Matin, "among others that reparations are bound up with war debts. There is disappointment at this in England and Germany, where they strive to make France responsible for a state of affairs she has not created."

"If the responsible governments in England and America judge it is conformable to their particular interests to abandon their claims on Germany, the French Government could not see any objection. But it will be understood abroad that France maintains her right to a substantial reparations balance, represented by the non-postponable annuity of the Young Plan."

Stephane Lausanne observed in Le Matin that the report is "much more remarkable for the facts it establishes than for the remedies it recommends. The remedies were as a matter of fact known in advance and are drawn from the usual pharmacopoeia, but the facts are prodigiously interesting because they define the situation and place the responsibility therefor."

FERGUSON FOR CANADA-BRITAIN TRADE TREATY

York, England, Aug. 21.—The Yorkshire Post, one of the most influential of the big provincial newspapers in this country, yesterday published a special Canadian supplement with an introduction by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, who is now spending a holiday in Canada.

"As a people," Mr. Ferguson wrote, "we Canadians believe the time has come when there should be prepared, signed and ratified some defined basis of trade relations between Great Britain and ourselves."

"We believe such co-operation is the means best calculated to accelerate the end of that terrible spell of economic depression through which the Empire has been, and still is, passing."

"In the long run I am satisfied nothing can prevent the coming together of the mother country and Canada on some basis of trading agreement. I hope the next Imperial Conference, whether at Ottawa or London, will have some practical results in that direction."

WORD AWAITED FROM TWO FAR NORTH FLIERS

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—Despite lack of radio contact, no anxiety was felt here for Edwin H. Preston and Robert H. Collinson, who took off yesterday from Cochrane, Ont., for Rupert House, lonely trading house on the east side of James Bay. It was one lap of a projected flight from Detroit to Denmark, over the far northern route. No word had been received from the fliers since their take-off yesterday. Government radio officials here said that, because of the comparative weakness of the transmitter on the plane and the immense distances in the far north to be traversed, it was considered almost impossible to communicate with the plane until it arrived in the neighborhood of Hudson Strait. The nearest government radio station to Rupert House is Hope's Advance, on the strait, about 700 miles north and east. Every station in the north has been ordered to maintain a twenty-four-hour watch for the plane's call signals, but they were not expected to be picked up until to-day or possibly to-morrow.

In the lonely and desolate country over which the fliers will travel, there is no means of communication by telegraph wire or railway.

British Papers Report Dominions' Notes on Trade

London, Aug. 21.—English newspapers, partly because of the preoccupation with the domestic financial-political crisis, show little disposition to comment on the exchange of correspondence between Premier Bennett of Canada and Premier G. W. Forbes of New Zealand over the interdominion tariffs.

But the differing headlines on their reports of the correspondence indicate in a small way their opinions. Thus The London News-Chronicle, Liberal, labelled it: "How Tariffs 'Cement' the Empire."

The London Daily Herald, Labor, went even farther with "Dominions' Trade Quarrel—Canadian Premier Rebukes Mr. Forbes."

The London Morning Post, Conservative, entitled it: "Prime Ministers at Loggerheads."

NEXT MONDAY IN QUEBEC

IF THE TASCHEREAU GOVERNMENT in Quebec wins the day at the general elections next Monday it will not be surprising if the strength of its following in the Legislature is substantially reduced. Since 1897 the Liberal party has had charge of the affairs of the province—and the present time is not the best of times for governments, especially after so many years of power. Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan were consistently loyal to Liberal governments for very many years. Eventually they turned.

If the Conservative party is to capture Quebec, however, it will have to make bigger gains than it made in the federal elections of last summer. At the beginning of the present year the Taschereau forces in the Legislature numbered sixty-nine in contrast with a Conservative opposition of twelve, four seats being vacant. Mr. Bennett captured twenty-four out of the sixty-five Quebec seats. But Mr. Taschereau's opponents are conducting a vigorous campaign under the leadership of Mr. Camille Houde, mayor of Montreal, a much younger man than the Prime Minister, who has passed his sixty-fourth milestone. Yet his experience as leader of the government for eleven years, together with his own popularity and the prominence of the family of which he is a member, should count for a good deal.

The government is asking support on the strength of its record. Several federal leaders of both parties are in the thick of the fray and are told that the contest is being fought as no provincial election has been fought for the last thirty years. Mr. Houde complains that the administration has not been aggressive enough; he wants more active policies with regard to such matters as agriculture and the social services. He answers Mr. Taschereau's provision of farm credits with interest at five per cent with a promise of similar accommodation at less interest, even two per cent if necessary. Promises made in election campaigns are not always kept. Mr. Bennett has demonstrated the truth of this statement. Mr. Houde, however, obviously is making a special bid for support from the rural constituencies where the government is strongest.

Since it was the Taschereau government which put through the legislation granting development rights to the Beauharnois power project, the scandal uncovered during the recent session of the Dominion Parliament has furnished opposition speakers and campaigners with a good deal of platform material. Mr. Taschereau is charged with too much haste in putting this legislation on the statute books. The unsatisfactory condition of the pulp and paper industry is another complaint the government is being called upon to meet. The Houde forces also contend that too many timber limits were awarded in the face of threatened over-production.

It is to be noted, incidentally, that the government has an excellent financial record, Quebec having been the envy of all the other provinces in this respect for some years, while the successful manner in which the provincial authorities have dealt with the unemployment problem is not likely to be forgotten by that section of the electorate which is not easily swayed by parrot cries of "time for a change." The fact remains, nevertheless, that the opposition forces are using heavier artillery on this occasion than they have for many years. The shots that tell most, of course, will be fired by the people on Monday.

BEER PARLOR LICENSES

THE NUMBER OF BEER RESORTS now operating on the Island Highway and in its vicinity is sufficient for all purposes, and the provincial liquor authorities should refuse to issue licenses for any more of them. Reports that applications for several new resorts were likely to be approved have provoked petitions against them from residents in the localities in which they were intended to be operated. As a general principle, no license should be granted for any district contrary to the preponderant sentiment of the residents there, while in every case the consideration of public safety should be a decisively determining factor. In fairness to the applicants, however, their position should be made clear before they engage in any expenditure on premises. There have been several cases in which people who have applied for licenses have gone to the expense and trouble of buying property and altering buildings under the impression that they would receive licenses, only to have their applications refused, to their own considerable loss.

ANOTHER WARNING

"There is an impression that if a country opens its markets to the world, that country will not be able to sell enough—it will be deluged with world products and will be ruined."—Sir George Paish.

THE EMINENT ECONOMIST WE HAVE quoted is warning Great Britain against the proposal to impose a ten per cent tariff for revenue, and in sounding his warning he deals with the recent prosperity of the United States. "United States prosperity," he says, "has come from the destruction of the physical barriers to production and trade. Three million square miles of country opened up by railways, by roads, and by credit have made possible this vast population enjoying the great well-being which they have hitherto enjoyed."

Sir George asks what is the lesson of this, and answers by saying that if you make trade possible, trade will flow. "You made it possible," speaking to the United States, "by building railways, and also by an act of great wisdom." He points out that under the United States constitution the United States people were not permitted to erect tariffs between the various states. Then he proceeds: "Imagine such an arrangement in any other part of the world! You have forty-eight states, and you allow no fiscal barriers to arise between any of those states, thus forming the greatest free trade area in the world. This policy of free trade caused the expansion as no other policy could have caused it."

We are asked to consider the experience of Great Britain, which, offering a completely free market to all kinds of products, with no limitations—food, raw materials, manufactured goods, or anything else that the world could produce—"has never succeeded in importing as much as she has exported; because the world wished to buy Great Britain's goods in greater measure than it was possible for that small nation to buy from the rest of the world." Sir George Paish continues his observations as follows:

At the present time the world's trade gates are closing, just when the world is in debt and needs the freest possible movement of commodities and the greatest possible income. The limitations are increasing and trade is declining. In 1927 a World Economic Conference was held in Geneva. It was called together because the situation was dangerous. Fifty nations accepted the invitation to the conference. They sent 250 delegates, 100 experts. The greatest financial authorities in the world, representing fifty nations, came together to discuss the situation, and they made a unanimous report that the tariff policy of the world was the disturbing element; instead of promoting trade it was reducing it; and that there must be tariff reductions.

In a most valuable report by M. Theunis, president of the conference, it was pointed out that the tariff policy did not lead to prosperity but to great poverty and to war. We cannot have a world dominated by tariffs, without creating war.

It will be remembered that high protectionists refused to be alarmed at the warning these experts gave three years ago. Times were good, and were going to be better, they said, and they ascribed those good times to high tariffs. Sir George Paish, Mr. Roger Babson, and others, told them in effect the world was living in a fool's paradise if it believed those fallacies. Hence, the report of the World Economic Conference fell on deaf ears.

JUNIOR SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT A group of citizens have formed an organization to promote the Junior Symphony Orchestra will be very welcome in local music circles. This orchestra, which now numbers nearly sixty young people, has been sustained so far by the enthusiasm of its members and, particularly, by the unwavering zeal of Mr. Harold Taylor, its conductor, whose practical interest in its welfare has covered a gamut of detail ranging from the training of raw material and instrument equipment to the development of the finished product in the presentation of concerts.

The ladies and gentlemen who yesterday formed themselves into a committee to further this movement are confident that with proper support it can be developed into something of real value to the community, comparable with similar organizations of young musicians which have won high distinction in other places. There is no good reason why, with adequate aid, Victoria should not have a junior symphony orchestra competent to hold its own in quality with like orchestras elsewhere, and one which would prove a valuable asset to the city.

The music-loving public will have an opportunity of appraising the talent of the Junior Symphony Orchestra and appreciating the admirable work done by Mr. Taylor, in a concert to be given on September 2, in which the young musicians will be assisted by well-known artists who have generously undertaken to contribute to the programme.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE WHEAT BONUS
The London Advertiser

The Dominion Government's payments of five cents a bushel for all wheat delivered to elevators in the prairie provinces is an attempt to compensate the farmers for raising the tariff on what they have to buy, knowing that no tariff will raise the price of what they have to sell. Canada's fiscal policy grows more like Australia's every day, and if persisted in will bring this country into the same plight.

WOULD HAVE BEEN STUPID
The St. Catharines Standard

Hon. Howard Ferguson declares that his party got none of the $125,000 which was paid to Alrd Jr. for alleged services in securing for Beauharnois a contract with Hydro. Considering how easy it was for the Conservatives to win the last Ontario election, it would have been the height of madness for the party to get tangled up with private power enterprise in Quebec. Not even his worst enemy would credit Mr. Ferguson with such stupidity.

HE'S SCOTCH
The Eastern Chronicle

Whatever may be said of J. E. Fridy, a California golfer, it must be admitted he is original. "Tiring of spending money on caddies to find balls which I hook or slice," said Fridy, "and noting the numerous white butterflies flitting about the St. Andrew Golf Club grounds, where I play, I determined to make use of my knowledge as a chemist. You know ants, bees and the like, are attracted by certain odors. I experimented until I found a formula which would draw these white butterflies and saturated golf balls with it. Now when I drive one into the rough, it sits down and wait until the butterflies find it for me."

DR. EINSTEIN'S UNIVERSE
The New York Times

If the universe of Einstein, De Sitter and Abbe Lemaitre were purely mathematical, we might dismiss them as intellectual curiosities and go about our business with never a care about the square root of minus one. What is disconcerting is the uncanny way in which seemingly outrageous deductions are experimentally verified.

In the last few years, for example, the astronomers of Mount Wilson have discovered that some distant gigantic groups of stars are rushing away from us so rapidly that any earthly explosion of dynamite seems small-like in comparison. Here we have definite evidence of that expanding universe which Abbe Lemaitre first described about four years ago, but which has only recently attracted the attention that it deserves because of the work of Mount Wilson. The universe proves to be as unstable as living organisms. It grows by a process of inflation. In a fine tribute which he pays to Lemaitre's work in Science, De Sitter likens the universe to a rubber ball. As such a ball is blown up, specks of dust upon it recede from one another. The galaxies studied by Hubble, Shapley and Humason are just such specks on the expanding ball of the cosmos.

A THOUGHT

It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God.—Matthew xix 24.

Worldly wealth is the devil's bait.—Burton.

Loose Ends

A word of comfort concerning angles—a word of protest concerning worms—and a word of resignation concerning an elderly widow.

F. H. T. W.

AS USUAL, I have a word of comfort and joy for you. It is true, of course, that times are hard. Governments and businessmen are finding it difficult to finance. Taxes are high and evidently going higher. Nations are pledging themselves to peace and piling up huge and ruinous armaments which will surely destroy them, if ever used. And the summer is almost over. But never mind. In all this current madness a few great men are still carrying on the really vital functions of civilization, still solving the problems that really matter. Now behold the splendid result—a professor Somebody or Other in an American college which I cannot remember, announces that after a lifetime of study, he has succeeded in trisecting an angle by geometry, after Euclid said it was impossible! And then there are people who say the world is not progressing.

THE REPORT of the United States Labor Commissioners for 1929, part of which was printed in this paper the other night, was full of valuable information for the people of this time. The United States Labor Commission, as you may have noticed, said in their report that times were bad because there was an over-production of everything and they didn't see what could be done about it, except the restriction of production. They looked to a permanent slowing up of industry since all markets were saturated with goods. Nothing of the sort happened. Industry increased its output to unheard-of volume, markets which were thought saturated bought an ever-increasing amount of goods. Then, a couple of years ago, the same old thing happened. There was a crash. Now a lot of shallow people are saying the same old thing. They are saying that there is an over-production in the world, a saturation of markets, and some industries are even going so far as to restrict production.

THIS IS a good time to remember what the misguided commissioners labor said in 1929. It is a good time to speak the truth instead of making excuses for ourselves. The truth now, as in 1929, is that there is no over-production and can't be while millions of people, not only in foreign lands but in the United States and Canada, haven't the bare necessities of life. There isn't too much wheat while there is half the world's population on a sound roof over its head, or too much metal while most people haven't automobiles or good plumbing. When everybody in the world has everything he needs and something over to make him comfortable, then it will be time to talk about over-production. Meanwhile an honest man must say that our trouble is not our cleverness in producing too much, but our utter stupidity. Our incredible inability to get things to those who need them.

I AM INFORMED of the exquisite fact that I shall be committing a serious legal offense if I catch a few fish with the use of worms. Yes, after all the trouble I have gone to this year in manuring the ground and planting lettuce and watering it, for the purpose of producing worms (lettuce being merely a wormish by-product) I am told by an indignant fisherman that worms are illegal for bait. I can hardly credit this statement, but my informant in his letter is so emphatic about it, and seems to know so well what he is talking about, that I am forced to think that there is something in it. Well, if the law forbids the use of worms it is a law which I shall take great pleasure in busting whenever the opportunity offers. It is a law I have busted many times already and so have nearly every other respectable law-abiding citizen of this country. It is a law which hundreds of glib fishermen are breaking out in the Banish Arm at this very moment. It is a law made to be broken for the very good reason that worms were made by a wise Creator not to stimulate the production of lettuce and the fertilization of the soil, but primarily for bait. If they weren't made for bait, what were they made for? And if we use them for bait, what right have we to the possession of worms at all? Presently I shall go out to dig a few more in my lettuce patch.

THE PRESENT GOINGS-ON of Mr. Tom Carr and the Widow Zager are the only thing that has kept other things from my mind. I find these two obnoxious beyond words and if I had any influence in the proper quarter they would cease going on altogether. They would go out. In one way, I suppose, it is amusing to watch the elderly widow's attempts to capture and regain possession of the young man while at the same time endeavoring to retain possession of her wig. There is something altogether repulsive about it. Like many other things these days, it makes you secretly ashamed that you belong to the human race.

I SEE NOW that I made a horrible mistake long ago. You probably do not recall it, but when Mary Gold was so ill I brutally advocated her early demise because I thought that measure would get rid of her and the inoffensive Mrs. Carr. At one moment, but, alas, as usual I was mistaken. Mary went, as I suggested, but Mr. Carr remained. Had Mary lived perhaps they would have married and had a lot of subnormal children and remained at home out of sight. With her dead, Mr. Carr has been a continual source of annoyance to the public ever since. I wonder how long this must go on.

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, AUGUST 21, 1906

From The Times Files

The forthcoming convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada promises to be a very interesting one, judging by the call issued by the executive committee. The convention assemblies in Victoria September 17.

The provincial senator, Herbert Carmichael, left last evening on the steamer Queen City on a hurried visit to Alberni and Great Central Lake. His object is to inspect the mineral locations in that vicinity, paying special attention also to occurrences of building stone that may be there.

On Monday, August 27, the public schools throughout the province will be thrown open for the fall and winter season. For several years past there has been an extension of the summer vacation, but it is not likely that the same course will be adopted in the present instance.

As expected, the visiting cricketers fell in love with the Gorge Park last evening. The cricket pitch was in excellent condition, and the players, in their honor, was to many a new experience. The programme was better rendered than on previous occasions.

Hon. William Templeman, Minister of Inland Revenue, will return to Victoria on Saturday. It is expected that his visit here will have to be curtailed owing to the pressure of departmental duties.

The opening games of the cricket tournament for the Pacific Coast championship took place yesterday afternoon at the Oak Bay grounds.

WILD DUCKS AND GEESE

To the Editor:—Referring to the above and my letter appearing in the Colonist newspaper under date of August 21, 1931, a correction is necessary, as neither myself nor the Jack Miner League have anything to say against the use of artificial decoys, but I do think most sportsmen, for game conservation, will agree with me that where artificial decoys are used, a limit should be fixed on the number used by any one man or gun.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

To the Editor:—Be notice in your valuable paper of August 20, with reference to the members of this department donating a day's pay to the unemployment relief fund, we would like to draw your attention to the fact that at the meeting the question of donating to the relief fund was merely discussed. We were given particulars of the purpose and administration of the fund, but in regard to a donation no definite action has yet been taken.

H. MEDLEY,
Secretary Victoria Firemen's Union.

PUBLIC WORKS AND UNEMPLOYMENT

To the Editor:—May I be permitted to endorse the protest made by Mr. C. Mayors and Sir P. S. Barnard against the policy of spending public money on needless roads and other unproductive undertakings. Whatever the solution of present unemployment it is certainly will not be found in piling still higher the burden of debt. As a matter of fact, the Canadian nation is already insolvent. National, provincial and municipal governments already hold a lien on the property of citizens which cannot be enforced without demolishing social life. Of what use is it to continue along the road of perpetual debt? I cannot agree with Mr. E. C. Meyers that there is any hope in a general back-to-the-land movement. Those already on the land are facing economic ruin like the rest of us. Salvation can only come by a reconstruction of society involving the elimination of unproductive public and private debt, the socializing of capital, and the means of life, wholesale reduction in taxation and the adoption of rational currency.

May I further record my considered opinion that any solution which does not result in a progressive increase in the general level of wages is utterly futile. Unless the workers of the world are enabled to consume currently, the over-increasing output of the modern industrial machine there will continue to be cycles of so-called overproduction involving periodic shutdowns until consumption overtakes production.

E. S. GOODWARD,
Central Building, Victoria, B.C., August 20, 1931.

WHO SPOILED THE PICTURE?

To the Editor:—A correspondent in Wednesday's Times draws a vivid picture of the life in Victoria in 1916—crowds of men returning, each with their pay cheques; happy wives and children with smiling faces, etc. Who spoiled the picture? The government, who at the time had no interest in winning any war, sent union agents over here and organized our workers for a cash consideration.

of $10 per head, and so much per month to carry on the good work. Once thoroughly organized, and under the lash of the United States organizers, a strike was ordered to raise the wages to $5. Ships were still considered necessary, so the government yielded to the demands of the United States organizers. Three months later a strike was ordered to enforce a wage of $6 per eight hours, and the country gave in again. Remember that $4 was the basic wage all over Canada right then. It is only fair to say right here that when this last strike was ordered the "happy wives" of the workers protested strongly and urged their men folk to return to work. They knew. Their protests availed nothing, and after a few weeks the strikers got the $6. A month later another strike was called, the demand being $6.60 per eight hours. After a few weeks of dickering, they got it. The nation was at war, and had no option, or thus figured it. Then the war was over, and the thousands of farmers who had drifted into the cities and paid a $10 fee for a job at unheard of wages, stayed around the cities hoping for more jobs at high wages. As for the wooden ships, thus built at the cost of millions, not a penny of profit accrued. Not only were they too expensive for Canada or any other country to buy and operate, but they were also too unwieldy. So those that were already afloat were loaded and sunk, and those on the ways were blasted out of the ways with dynamite. Thus the industry that might have amounted to something was wrecked by the greed of foreign organizers.

The organizers, having returned to their own country with pocket money to the tune of $2,000,000 for their "trouble," one would think Victoria had had her lesson. Not so. When local "leaders" realized that many thousands of craftsmen had laid down their lives and would never return, another strike was ordered to enforce $7 a day, and still another strike to enforce $8 and $9 a day. Of course, they got it; yet some of them must be wondering if, after all, they were not better off with even $5 a day than the present offer of $1 a day plus board.

The workers are not wholly to blame, except in so far as they were caught into foreign unions and with definite promise of high wages. Canada made her colossal mistake of spilling the United States in the matter of high wages. The United States was not at war in those days; money was pouring in. In Canada it was pouring out, a vast diffusive proposition.

And since we have to thank our foreign unions for our plight, why not throw them out, even if an act of parliament is necessary? Then let the government fix wages not for the few that are willing to pay $10 (it has risen to $25 now), but for all. Take the matter of wages right out of the hands of agitators. Start again at the basic wage of $4 a day, and every cent that the traffic will stand. Labor leaders will please note that the $8, $9 and $10 a day wages are gone for years to come. They will never be paid again. In spite of her tribulations, Britain is a good guide as regards wages. It may be necessary in Canada to almost double Britain's wage scale; further than that, disaster lies.

CAMPAIGN IN QUEBEC BRINGS WARM SPEECHES

Hon. G. W. Scott Says Conservative Leader Is of Tammany Type
 Houde, Tory Leader, Thinks He May Be Arrested Before Polling

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—That "a vote for Houde is a vote for Tammanyism in its worst form" was a statement made during a Liberal meeting here yesterday evening by Hon. Gordon W. Scott, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Scott, who has been named by Premier L. A. Taschereau as the next Provincial Treasurer in his cabinet, charged his Conservative opponents with "distortion of facts" and "flagrant promises." They had said the bookkeeping of the province was faulty. He replied that it followed the systems in vogue at Ottawa and London. According to the auditors, he asserted, Quebec's surplus for the last fiscal year was actually $500,000.

"Do not rely on promises. Rely on stability," he urged.

Houde, Conservative leader, also spoke yesterday, varying his attack on the Liberals with a charge that his opponents intended to bring about the arrest of himself and other prominent Conservatives on a charge of murder. On three different platforms, at Montreal, at an English-speaking meeting in Montreal, and at a French meeting in Montreal the Conservative leader suggested such arrests would be made on Saturday, and that, circularly describing the case would be broadcast over the province by planes.

Of the 201 candidates nominated last Monday for the Legislative Assembly, 199 were left in the field to-day following the withdrawal yesterday of Alphonse Jean, Independent Liberal in Montmagny. Another candidate withdrew yesterday, reducing the Independent and Labor ranks to twenty-one. The eighty-eight official Liberals and ninety Conservatives nominated to contest the province's ninety seats were still in the fray to-day.

Boxing Officials Are Notified Of Max's Eye Injury

New York, Aug. 21.—Formal notification that Max Schmeling will be fighting to defend his heavyweight championship against Primo Carnazza next month was filed yesterday with the Madison Square Garden Corporation and the National Boxing Association. The report, which was given by Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, and attested by Drs. D. Adams and Professor Baetner, European representatives of the N.B.A., says Schmeling is suffering from an eye injury that will keep him out of the ring indefinitely.

BIG MOVEMENT ON IN OKANAGAN

Canadian Press

Vernon, B.C., Aug. 21.—Although the prices are low, the Okanagan is enjoying a wonderful movement of products to market. One big shipping organization reports a 20 per cent increase in volume over this date a year ago. The movement is attributed to good values and to an earlier season. grade Wealthies, with 15 per cent of color, have been moving out of Okanagan points since Monday. The price is $1.25. The estimated tonnage is 25,000 packed boxes, which is about 50 per cent greater than one year ago. So far as known, only three canneries are operating on tomatoes. These are Bulman's at Vernon, one at Sheroft and another at Kamloops. One plant is operating at Kelowna, packing beans and the Dominion Canners is operating on fruit at Penticton. The Tomato Growers' Association are offering a deal at $10 a ton, shippers to buy from all growers proportionately.

SAANICH FORMS CHARITY BODY

Meeting at Lake Hill Sets Up Organization for Relief Work

Permanent Body Will Function on Lines of Friendly Help Society

To organize in Saanich a charitable society similar to the Victoria Friendly Help Society, a meeting of sixty men and women at Lake Hill Community Centre, yesterday afternoon appointed the following committee: Mrs. W. H. Richdale, Mrs. Todd, Mrs. Kalan, Mrs. Steele, Mrs. W. J. Lynn, Mrs. Styan, all nominated from the floor, with the following added by Reeve Crouch, chairman: Miss K. Oldfield, Mrs. J. W. Dealey, Mrs. F. Osborne, Mrs. J. M. Beckett, Mrs. W. O. Wallace, Mrs. K. P. Butchart, Mrs. Watson, the Misses Tolmie, Mrs. H. C. Oldfield, Mrs. D. Mowat, Mrs. Alice McGregor and Mrs. Howcroft. The committee was authorized to decide upon the name of the organization and elect the officers, and will meet on Monday at 3 o'clock at the Lake Hill Community Hall.

Reeve Crouch explained the need of an organization and expressed confidence that $1,000 would be quickly subscribed to finance the work of a relief society. He considered the organization should be a permanent institution, not merely to cope with the current emergency.

Grocery bills for distressed residents which the municipality paid had ordinarily totaled $3,000 annually, but this year the council had already provided $2,500 for this form of aid to distressed families.

Rev. Father Scheelan warned that any organization formed would involve salaries for investigators, who should be careful to avoid conflict with the work of existing groups, or reopening of disputes between urban and rural areas.

Mrs. Alice McGregor made suggestions as to the method of organization and the scope of the work advisable.

E. Fisher moved an organization be created and was seconded by Mrs. Richdale. Advice to delay action pending announcement of the government's relief proposals was tendered by Mrs. Osborne, who believed the employment on highways contemplated would provide work for all in need.

The motion to delay action was defeated 22 to 21, and Reeve Crouch then announced that a standing vote of those in favor was supported by twenty-five persons.

SUGGESTS IMPROVEMENTS

A. G. Lambrick supported creation of a relief body, and criticized ratepayers' associations for having failed to help the municipal council to deal with the problem of unemployment. He considered the construction of sewers and sidewalks, street lighting and other public works would provide ample work.

Reeve Crouch said that if the people wanted to pay increased taxes they could obtain betterments.

Criticism of charitable workers as autocratic and tactless was aired, and speakers told of berries unpicked because no charitable organization existed in Saanich to teach for needy people allowed to help themselves. Reeve Crouch said the Victoria Friendly Help Society had done good work for many years.

Noble, A. R. Guile and Frank Boughton. The petition carried seventy-three signatures and requested that a minimum value of $3,500 be required for residences in the district. The council later referred the matter to Councilor D. Hoare, of Ward Two, the municipal clerk and municipal engineer, who will draft a scheme for submission to the municipal solicitors.

The deputation also submitted a

Vancouver Work For Many Men

Vancouver, Aug. 21.—Construction of a two-mile combined trunk sewerage line in South Vancouver that will give employment to 150 men was authorized by the Vancouver District and Joint Sewerage and Drainage Board at a special meeting yesterday.

Cost of the new drainage system will be approximately $385,000. Work will be started September 1 and will extend over a period of fifteen months. The sewer will be built on Quebec Street from Forty-ninth Avenue south to Fifty-fifth, and from there in a zig-zag line to a point 500 feet west of Fraser Avenue on Marine Drive.

From that point the sewer will be extended a considerable distance into the north arm of the Fraser River, where all waste will be emptied.

HE COULDN'T READ FOR INDIGESTION

"For some years previous to 1922 I was subject to indigestion, with headaches and thousands of stars sparkling in my eyes, which prevented me from reading. I decided to try Kruschen salts. That was August, 1922, and I have taken a little in my first morning cup of tea ever since. I now eat anything, and am entirely free from indigestion or 'stars'."—F.C.

Now let it be said quite definitely, that what Kruschen did for him, it will do for everybody else who suffers from indigestion as he did. The fact is that "the little daily dose" first stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion, and then ensures complete, regular, and unflinching elimination of all waste matter every day.

Soon after you start on Kruschen you will begin to feel the benefit. You will find to your satisfaction that you are able to enjoy your food without any distressing after-effects. And, as you persevere, you will see that the relief which Kruschen brings is lasting relief.

RUSSIAN WIVES OF ENGLISHMEN ARE DETAINED

Parliament Told Soviet Refuses to Permit Them to Leave Native Country

Canadian Press
London, Aug. 21.—In the House of Commons Sir George Bowyer, member for Buckingham, drew attention to an appeal by an Englishman whose wife is detained in Russia. The Englishman, Mr. Walford, married the lady on February 8, in Odessa, and he at once applied to the Soviet government for permission for her to leave Russia, which was refused three weeks later.

On May 22 he decided to leave Moscow, and on his arrival in London went to the Foreign Office and explained the whole position to one of the officials. He also communicated with him (Sir G. Bowyer), and afterwards went to the Foreign Office at intervals of about a week, and was assured that the matter would be taken up with the Russian ambassador, but with no result. The speaker then took up the matter, but got a very unsympathetic reply from the Foreign Office, and there was considerable delay, and this lady was still in Russia. He argued that energetic steps should have been taken to obtain her release.

DUAL NATIONALITY

Mr. Dalton, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, replying, said Mr. Walford, who was in the employ at one time of the Indo-European Telegraph Company in the Soviet Union, like a number of other Englishmen who had resided in Russia, elected to marry a Russian lady. This lady was a Russian citizen, and although she had married an Englishman she was still a Soviet citizen. She was what lawyers called a "dual"—that was to say, she had a dual nationality. She was a Soviet citizen by reason of having been born in the Soviet Union, a British citizen by reason of having married an Englishman.

Her case was not an isolated one. It had become almost an epidemic with Englishmen staying a long time in Russia to marry Russian wives. There had been five or six other cases in which Englishmen domiciled in Russia had married Russian wives, and precisely similar difficulties had arisen. The Soviet government had laid down certain regulations whereby no person was allowed to leave the Soviet Union if he or she was a Soviet citizen who had gone through the form of marriage with a non-Soviet person unless he or she secured a release from his or her Soviet citizenship.

OTHER CASES

He had particulars of five or six cases in which as the result of representations they had been able to secure the release of the ladies concerned. Mrs. Walford was the only case at present in which they had not been successful. They were not at all satisfied with the position so far as Mrs. Walford was concerned. It was suggested that the Foreign Office had been unsympathetic. They would endeavor to secure permission for Mrs. Walford to leave the Soviet Union and come to this country. In return, he hoped Sir George Bowyer would give an understanding that none of his friends would try to move the Home Office to keep her out, taking flight merely because she was born a Russian citizen with a Russian name.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Mrs. M. M. M. will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

Comments on a previous article on the dirt-eating child are still rolling in. Mothers who have overcome this tendency in their children are eager to recommend the method by which they effected a cure. It is accepted by authorities that the basis of almost all unusual food cravings is some diet inadequacy.

One suggestion is that more salt be added to the child's food. Right in line with this is the suggestion to give magnesium in inorganic form (block magnesia), as a means of making up this mineral lack. Another reader wrote that she had cured her child of sand-eating by iron medication.

SEEK DOCTOR'S ADVICE

The block-magnesia has been suggested before, as well as calcium medication. Naturally all such methods should be used by the advice of the doctor. There are localities where these unnatural appetites are commonplace, either due to the deficiency of minerals in the food grown in the soil or to traditional diets in vogue in certain parts of the country. Doctors in those communities are then in a position to know what minerals are likely to be deficient and prescribe the right one.

At any rate I feel that block magnesia, a harmless laxative, would be worth a trial. The reader whose child had been cured suggested a bite of this be given the child every time he was given eating dirt. She claimed that the cure was complete before the block of magnesia was finished.

It is, however, well for mothers to realize that a good diet contains all the organic minerals. Magnesium is present in appreciable quantities in many of the foods containing calcium.

ATTAINS 93RD. BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Jane A. Guiney of Garbally Road Attains Ripe Age

Another milestone was passed yesterday in the life of one of Victoria's nonagenarians, Mrs. Jane A. Guiney of Garbally Road, who celebrated the ninety-third anniversary of her birthday at the home of her daughter, Miss Guiney, with whom she has made her home since her arrival in Victoria eight years ago from eastern Canada.

Mrs. Guiney, whose maiden name was Jane Ann Boyce, was born in Renfrew, Ont., and is the widow of Cornelius Guiney. In her conversation she still designates Ontario and Quebec as Upper and Lower Canada and refers to Ottawa as Bytown. She is the mother of nine children and has six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Although Mrs. Guiney has suffered blindness for the last eight years, her mind is very alert and she is keenly interested in the affairs of daily life in the city in which she has chosen to spend the remainder of her long life. In honor of the occasion, Miss Guiney entertained a number of friends of her mother at the tea hour yesterday afternoon at her home on Garbally Road.

FOR LATE SUMMER AT THE BEACH

Mrs. Lawrence G. Fuller, who is vacationing at Narragansett Pier, R.I., wore a pair of white pyjamas when she strolled on the sands at the beach on the other day. The pyjamas, which feature very wide trousers and the new square neck, are made from the popular lightweight wool material. A belt and hat band of red add a decorative touch for late summer.

There is a superstitious belief that the amethyst will dispel sleep, sharpen the intellect, prevent intoxication, give victory to soldiers and protect from sorcery.

TOMATO JUICE CHEAP SOURCE OF VITAMINS

F. E. Atkinson of Summerland Explains Method of Preparation

Speed Essential to Preservation of Nutritive Value, Expert Warns

Tomato juice is among the most health giving drinks that a housewife can prepare from raw fruits or vegetables for her family. Although it is not rich in actual energy producing constituents, it contains such high proportions of vitamins A, B and C, and minerals, particularly iron, that it assists materially in the assimilation of the heavier foods. Mineral acids, particularly citric, which assist in the digestion processes, are also present. Research work on vitamins carried on by various institutions has shown that vitamin A increases resistance to colds, sinus trouble, pneumonia and other infection, and promotes normal development of children. Vitamin B is generally promotive of health, and is an aid to keeping the appetite keen. Vitamin C is a factor in the growth of children and a preventive of many diseases. An abundance of vitamin C in the diet helps to overcome irritable and restless tendencies.

In sections where tomatoes are grown, tomato juice can be made in the home and is a great deal cheaper than its equivalent in orange or other citrus juices. "Probably more Canadian diets are lacking in vitamin C than any other one constituent, and tomatoes which are our most economical source should be more widely used for supplying this constituent," reports F. E. Atkinson, of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Summerland, in a bulletin giving the following suggestions:

CHOICE OF FRUITS
Pick thoroughly vine ripened fruit. Green portions impart bitter undesirable flavors. Artificially ripened fruit is not as rich in vitamins as that ripened naturally.

PREPARATION
Stem and core the tomatoes. Slightly pulp with a potato masher and place on the stove in a covered kettle. Heat almost to boiling. It is wise to put as much fruit in the kettle at the commencement of this step as possible in order to exclude the air, which slowly destroys the vitamins by oxidation.

EXTRACTION
After the pulp has reached the desired temperature it is ready to be passed through a sieve to remove the skin and seeds. At this point the necessity of haste cannot be over-emphasized as the juice will lose much of its nutritive value if exposed to the air for more than a few minutes.

BOTTLING

Return the extracted juice to the kettle and bring just to boiling. At the same time have enough sealers or small pop bottles kept hot in the oven. Fill these with the juice, seal, and place in boiling water. Remember to fill the bottles well up into the neck and to keep the juice hot. A cook of two minutes in boiling water is sufficient for small bottles, while sealers should receive four to five minutes.

FLAVORINGS

The juice considered to this point is pure tomato, suitable for feeding to babies instead of orange juice. If it is to be used by adults as a before breakfast drink, it is improved by the addition of salt and sugar at the rate of a level tablespoonful of both to each gallon of juice. If cocktails for dinner are desired, small amounts of mild spices such as cloves, allspice, cinnamon and red pepper, may be added in addition to the salt and sugar. These help to emphasize the tomato flavor, which should still be dominant after the blending is finished.

Vancover, Aug. 21.—Six football players who were suspended by the special John Russell committee in June for what was termed ungentlemanly conduct when the players failed to notify the committee that they would be unable to take part in the game against the touring the club's fall regatta to be held at the Gorge on Labor Day. This evening plans for the event will be completed at a special meeting, at which all oarsmen are requested competition for fairs. Under present plans, the club intends to split up its existing crews in order to make them evenly matched for the struggle. There is a chance, however, that Rex Askey will keep the squad which won the 1934 regatta.

Several strong doubles, including Dillabough and Francis, Wright and Engel, Vaucher and Tobin, are expected to be in the running.

Several other fine events, including canoe races, under the direction of the British Columbia Canoe Association in Darbyshire, and possibly swimming events will also be staged.

McLarnin Pounds Out Easy Victory Over Petrolle

Vancouver Youth Jabs Billy Dizzy With Deadly Left

British Columbia Scrapper Head and Shoulders Above
One-time Fargo Express in Ten-round Bout;
McLarnin Gives Wonderful Exhibition of All-round
Boxing; Bout Becomes Monotonous to Small Crowd

New York, Aug. 21.—The Irish clan of McLarnin can rest asy to-day so far as the threat of battle-scarred little Billy Petrolle, the one-time Fargo Express, is concerned. Chunky, pink-faced Jimmy McLarnin, the pride and joy of the clan, settled to matter quite convincingly yesterday evening before a small and only mildly-aroused crowd at the Yankee Stadium. Jimmy hipped and battered Petrolle so decisively, in ten rounds, that he became quite monotonous before the formality of raising the fishman's glove by another well-known Celt, "Bellerin" Joe" Humphries.

TURLERS BREAK EVEN IN FIRST SOFTBALL DUEL

Costa and Evans Star as Jokers and Duncan Tie First
Game 2 to 2 in Finals

Game Called After Eleven
Innings of Brilliant Ball;
Second Game Sunday

Unable to break the deadlock after eleven innings of brilliant ball, Jokers and Duncan Maple Leafs, finalists for the Vancouver Island softball championship, left Victoria West Park bracketed in a 2 to 2 tie at the close of their first fixture in the play-off series yesterday evening. Sterling work by Louis De Costa, Jokers' moundman, and Evans, star twirler for the Up-Islanders, featured the game.

All four runs came in the third and fourth frames. Duncan went into the lead in the third when McKinney drove out a triple to score two runners. In their first of the frame the Jokers bunched to bring in one run and evened the count with another in the fourth. Inning after inning the teams went 1 to 1 and were retired without making the deadlock.

AME THROUGH IN FINCH

In the ninth Evans gave a marvelous performance. Three Jokers loaded the bases before a man was put out. The Duncan pitcher came through in the inch and retired the side without a run being scored.

The game was one of the finest seen in a local diamond this year and bids to introduce a calibre of play into the finals not seen before.

On Sunday the squads will clash again at Duncan with a third game called for Victoria West Park the following Thursday.

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT CARDED

Vangler, Barackman, Brooks

day's Wrestling Card

Two fine bouts have been arranged for Saturday evening's wrestling card to be presented at the Tillikum gymnasium. A double main event will be offered with Sammy Vangler, Portland, and Mervin Barackman, Olympia, two classy middleweights, appearing in the opener, while "Rocky" Brooks, Victoria heavyweight, and Cowboy Ray, Omaha, will be the opponents in the second battle.

The first bout will get under way at 8:45 o'clock. The Vangler-Barackman bout should be crammed full of action. Vangler is fast and clever, and on top of that uses many little dirty tricks in an effort to win. Barackman, a veteran of the ring, will prove a tough opponent for the Portlander, and will have a slight weight advantage.

After two straight wins here over Schroeder, New York, and the "Black Panther," Tacoma negro, Brooks is to make it three in a row, but he will be up against an experienced opponent in Ray.

City Athletes Leave For Big Vancouver Meet

The majority of Victoria's aspirants for track and field honors in the big international meet to be held in Vancouver to-morrow, left the city this afternoon to rest up on the mainland before going into the fray. They will be followed to-night and to-morrow morning by the other members of the squad.

With the athletes went a contingent of track followers, including local A.A.U. branch officials. The complete entry list filed by Archie McKinnon, coach at the local Y.M.C.A., is as follows: 1,500 metres, senior—C. MacDonald, 5,000 metres, senior—Frank Aldous, 800 metres—C. Cunningham and C. ## BRITISH PAIR CAPTURE MATCH

Fred Perry and Pat Hughes
Defeat Wood and Shields in Newport Tournament

Newport, N.I., Aug. 21.—Frederick Perry and G. Patrick Hughes, British Davis Cup doubles players, to-day gained the semi-final round of the Newport Casino tennis team play by taking the deciding set from the American internationalists, Sidney Wood and Francis X. Shields, by a 6-2 margin. The scores for this match, halted yesterday evening by darkness, were 4-6, 9-7, 6-8, 6-1, 6-2.

The Britblers' victory moved them into an encounter with Johnny Doe and George Lott, United States champions. Wood and Shields were late getting to the Casino and as a result they had to start play against the crack Britons with little warming up.

Perry and Hughes, on the scene early, were in fine fettle when the final set got under way. They piled up a commanding lead by fracturing both Americans' first services. They outdistanced the United States players the rest of the route to run out the set.

OUTBOARDS SET MANY RECORDS

Andy Cleland, Hamilton, Sets
World Mark of 49.69 M.P.H. at Canadian Meet

Peterboro, Ont., Aug. 21.—One world speed record and six Canadian records were broken when the Canada Power Boat Association staged the first day of its official outboard motor speed trials at South Beach on Clear Lake yesterday.

Five Peterboro pilots and a pilot from Hamilton, were responsible for the spectacular sweep that not only smashed one world record but threatened several others and washed nearly every major Dominion outboard motor record from the board.

The records and record setters were: Andy Cleland, Hamilton, Division 1, Class E, world record 49.69 m.p.h., Pete Gordon, Peterboro, Division 1, Class C, Canadian record, 41.89 m.p.h., Con White, Peterboro, Division 1, Class A, Canadian record, 28.26 m.p.h., Don Wood, Peterboro, Division Y, Class D, Canadian record, 47.75 m.p.h., Eric Westby, Peterboro, Division 1, Class B, Canadian record, 41.62 m.p.h., Bob Carter, Peterboro, Division Y, Class B, Canadian record, 40.225 m.p.h.

A mark of 50.352 miles per hour set by Don Wood in Division Y, Class E, was also given the status of a Canadian record by the association his speed trial being the first official trial in Class E to be made in Canada.

Brandt Establishes Himself One of Best Southpaws In Majors

This Season; Has Won Sixteen Games and Lost
Eight to Date; Turned Back Pittsburgh 2 to 1 Yesterday in Ten Innings; New York Giants Make Gain by Win Over Cincinnati; Ruth's Home Run With Bases Filled Gives Yankees Win Over St. Louis

Ed Brandt, who has been pitching for the Boston Braves for several seasons without even threatening the .500 mark in the averages, not only has surpassed all his own hurling marks this year, but has made himself one of the best southpaws in the major leagues.

Brandt turned in his sixteenth victory of the year yesterday when the Braves downed the Pittsburgh Pirates 2 to 1, in the ten-inning first game of a doubleheader. He has lost eight consecutive games since the opening of the season, but his record is not as bad as it looks. Brandt, who is 21 years old, has been among the league's left-handers. A year ago Brandt could win only four games out of twenty-two. Now he has more games in the win column than any rival in the league.

Despite Brandt's victory the Braves could not gain in their struggle with Pittsburgh for fifth place. The Pirates came back strong against Bill Sherdel, in the second game and won 3 to 4 as Pie Traynor drove in three runs. GIANTS-STRENGTHEN HOLD

What gaining was done in the National League yesterday went to the credit of the New York Giants. Some hitting behind Carl Hubbell, with Fred Leach's homer as a clincher, gave New York a 3 to 1 victory over Larry Benton and the Cincinnati Reds. This triumph put the Giants a full game ahead of the defeated Chicago Cubs and eight and one-half behind who were rallied out in Philadelphia.

The Cubs could make no headway against Watson Clark, Brooklyn, until the ninth inning and by that time Brooklyn had come through with an eighth inning rally against Charley Root that netted them four runs and a 4 to 1 victory.

Heavy hitting again played the big part in the American League programme and with it came the broken record that has become almost a daily occurrence in the junior circuit. Earl Averil, Cleveland, slugged, crashed his twenty-seventh home run of the year as the Indians made it three straight over Washington's second-place Senators by a 10 to 8 count. The homer broke the Cleveland record last year by Eddie Morgan, who also crushed a four-bagger yesterday as one of the seventeen hits off Marberry and Fischer.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland, Aug. 21.—Cleveland made it three straight over the second-place Washington Senators yesterday by pounding out seventeen hits, including Averil's twenty-seventh home run, for a 10 to 8 victory. E. H. E. Washington . . . . . 8 9 1 Cleveland . . . . . 10 17 2 Batteries—Marberry, Fischer and Spencer; Harder, Connolly and Sewell.

St. Louis, Aug. 21.—Babe Ruth's thirty-fourth home run of the season, Lou Gehrig's thirty-third and one by Joe Sewell gave the New York Yankees a 7 to 5 victory over the Browns yesterday. Vernon Gomez shut out St. Louis with one hit until the ninth inning. New York . . . . . 7 11 1 St. Louis . . . . . 3 5 2 Batteries—Gomez and Dickey; Gray, Herbert and Ferrell.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The White Sox battered Rommel and Hoyt for nineteen hits yesterday and defeated the Athletics 11 to 6 to square the series. Thomas and Fraiser gave the A's nine hits. E. H. E. Philadelphia . . . . . 6 9 8 Chicago . . . . . 11 13 3 Batteries—Hoyt, Rommel and Cochrane; Heving, Thomas, Fraiser and Tate.

Detroit, Aug. 21.—The Detroit Tigers pounded out a 7 to 2 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the second game of a series yesterday. The Tigers drove Lisensbee from the mound in the first inning with three doubles and a single, which made four runs with one out. Morris, who succeeded Lisensbee, was found for only one run, but McLaughlin, who pitched the eighth inning, allowed three hits and two runs. Herring, Tiger pitcher, had the Sox well in hand most of the way. E. H. E. Boston . . . . . 2 3 2 Detroit . . . . . 7 13 1 Batteries—Lisensbee, Morris, McLaughlin and Berry; Herring and Mayworth.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Boston, Aug. 21.—Pie Traynor's bat, which drove in three runs, furnished sufficient impetus to allow the Pirates to win the second game of a doubleheader from the Braves, 5 to 4, yesterday, after they had dropped the opener, 3 to 1, in ten innings. First game— E. H. E. Pittsburgh . . . . . 1 3 2 Boston . . . . . 5 4 0 Batteries—Kramer, Osborn, Sweet and Phillips; Brandt and Sophor.

MAY REDUCE BULL

In view of the exceptional high scoring this year Major Richardson states it is more than likely the size of the bull's eye will be reduced for the Ottawa meet. In this manner competition will be made stiffer and will help to eliminate the large number of ties, such as was seen in a great many of this year's competitions. Q.M.S. A. E. Evans led the Victorians at Ottawa, and gained a place for himself on next year's Bisle team. However, plans are under way to increase the size of the team to twenty men and if it is done both Richardson and Regan stand a good chance of being included.

Conditions for shooting at Ottawa were ideal, Major Richardson stated. Members of the British team who came to Canada to take part in the D.C.R.A. competitions were enthusiastic over the Connaught range, declaring it to be a much fairer range than Bisle.

ROAD WORK FOR ALL SEEKING IT

Works Department Gives Out Highway Programme For Vancouver Island

West Coast Road to Be Worked on For Distance of Five Miles; Other Works

A highway programme for Vancouver Island which, it is claimed, will provide employment for every man prepared to seek it has been announced by Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, with work scheduled to start within a few days.

Construction gangs will be at work on every main highway on Vancouver Island and on the Gulf Island roads. It is not expected that work camps will be established on Vancouver Island, as the work is spread over so that residents of the district can in most cases be employed.

The following programme has been announced:

Road construction between Ucluelet and Tofino to provide a good highway between these West Coast settlements.

Division public reconstruction work for a distance of five or six miles preparatory to an extension of the West Coast road.

Island Highway: Widening, straightening and general improvements at points other than that portion now designated as the Transcanada Highway.

Improvements on the Nanaimo-Alberni highway above Cameron Lake.

Improvements on the highway between Courtenay, Metchosin Bay and Campbell River.

Work on the Dove Creek road preparatory to what will eventually become a road to the Forbidden Plateau.

While the very large works programme for the mainland has not yet been made public, it is understood that it will include large improvements to the Transprovincial Highway which crosses the province from the Similkameen to the Alberta boundary via the Okanagan and Kootenay Nelson districts; the construction of the Hope-Princeton road to connect the southern route with the Transcanada Highway at Hope; the building of a road through from Prince George to connect with the Jasper-Park network; the completion of the North Thompson road, and extensive improvements along the Great North Bend road between Prince George and Hazelton, as well as extension of the Prince Rupert Highway out of that city up the Skeena.

The Victoria men will leave for the conference August 26 to take part in the deliberations which will start on September 1.

Resolutions regarding pensions are now being drafted by the local association for submission by the Victoria representatives to the conference.

The Victoria group yesterday evening expressed the hope that the conference would result in the establishment of an Army and Navy Association unit in Hamilton.

Announcement was made that the women's auxiliary of the unit would hold a garden party to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the grounds of Major H. W. Niven, Head Street. The function will be formally opened by Mrs. Walter Nichol.

A total of 227,116 miles was traversed by "Hell's Angels" airplanes in filming the sky action of Howard Hughes' $4,000,000 aviation picture, the current attraction at the Columbia Theatre.

Eighty-eight ships, plus a bombing plane and a zeppelin, were employed for the aerial sequences, and these were manned during the eight-month production by a total of 137 aviators.

This was the largest airfleet and personnel ever assembled except by governments, and establishes a record for all time in movie making.

A critic bewails the fact that there are few pleasant people in Frederick Lonsdale's play, "which are not a good advertisement for English society." Still he finds an appeal in "On Approval" coming to the Coliseum Theatre. If only pleasant people were portrayed in films and stage plays patrons should have to endure a superfluity of sugary goodness and mighty little entertainment would result.

COLISEUM THEATRE

Laughter pictures are in fashion. Few productions have done more to establish a vogue in British laughter films than those of the British and Dominion Film Corporation. The fashion was set with "Splinters," then "Rookery No. 1" came along. This was an Aldwych Theatre success and it met with such general appreciation that it was decided to adapt other Aldwych successes to the screen. "Tons of Money" has followed and this excellent picture of delightful fooling is being shown at the Coliseum Theatre to-day. Several of the original stage cast are in the picture which ensures its success.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE
Joseph Cawthorn, who plays Huber with William Haines in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "A Tailor Made Man," is one of the veteran stage stars of the screen. He started years ago as a child actor, and has appeared on the stage with almost every famous foot-light star. The new picture is now playing at the Playhouse Theatre.

CAPITOL THEATRE
"Up for Murder" Universal's absorbing love drama which presents Low Ayres as star, is showing at the Capitol Theatre to-day and Saturday. This colorful story is told against the setting background of a great metropolitan newspaper, and brings to the screen "The eternal triangle" in a new guise.

A critic reports falls desperately in love with the beautiful society editor, only to discover that this glorious girl is the mistress of the paper's owner. The event which follows is a startling discovery made of "Up for Murder" one of the most powerful dramas we have ever shown.

DOMINION THEATRE
Tom Patricola, who so cleverly plays the part of Gus Schultz, the wandering ne'er-do-well of the orchard country in "Children of Dreams," the Warner Bros. musical romance, now at the Dominion Theatre, denounced his way into fame and fortune, with a plink-plunking banjo under his arm.

He has been seen on the screen as Mahat in "Married in Hollywood," the dancer in "Frozen Justice" and Willie Gump in "South Sea Rose." The part of Gus in "Children of Dreams," in which he teams with Marion (Pearl) Byron, gives him a rare chance to display his unique humor.

CHAPTER II

Willow Stream was a sleepy seaside village of narrow, elm shaded streets piling off into a countryside of rolling green hills. The taxi which carried Cass and Liane up from the station on that hot June day rattled over lanes smelling of honeysuckle, on the blossoms in the doorways and were great clumps of purple iris everywhere.

The cab drew up at 20 Dogwood Lane. Here was a low, white house tucked in barberry and evergreen. The knocker was heavy, old and rusted, everything about the place looked old and run-down. The porch sagged and the shingles needed paint. But to Cass and Liane with eyes accustomed to the brick and mortar of the smouldering city the place had an air of peace and beauty.

Mrs. Smithers answered the clanging of their knock and showed them to the parlour. Cass said, looking about the low-ceilinged room, "Wonder if this won't be terribly hot."

Mrs. Smithers assured them it was amazingly cool under the roof. The two had to take her word for it. Mrs. Smithers was a small, ruddy woman with a graying hair. Her hair was white and her blue eyes had a gentle melancholy as did her voice.

The place smelled of gingerbread and plum cake. Liane loved that as well as the white iron bed with its honeycomb counterpane. She loved the seven painted floor with the rag rug, the washstand with its quaint white pitcher. There was a bathroom on the second floor, their landlady explained, with a modest price. She supposed city folks would find it kind of inconvenient. Liane and Cass tried to look as if they were used to the most lavish quarters so that she should not be disappointed.

They left their bags and started to talk to the theatre. The playhouse is located on a corner of the Cleopatra estate on the shore. There would be no trouble, said Mrs. Smithers, in finding it as orange-painted arrows marked the way all along the road, the Willow Stream Playhouse, one mile.

Through the trees ahead they could see the gray stone pier which is the Cleopatra mansion. It was quite in the English manner with a climbing over the walls, with a garden and a terrace. There was a place, said Liane, you wouldn't be ashamed to take the boy and the girl.

Cass laughed, then looked shocked. Where do you pick up such dreadful things? she wanted to know. Liane said, "Elsie always jokes about her friends. It isn't considered vulgar here, mother. It's whimsical. Elsie says I'm the best people use the phrase."

Cass sniffed. Obviously she had her own opinions about "our people." The road led away now from the pier and in a little glade beyond they could see the red tiled roof of the playhouse. A little group had already assembled. Cass could see a few, very animated, wearing a pink dress and engaging a lean young man in conversation. Vernon Wells was supervising the unloading of a car. Mrs. Cleopatra, in another of her astonishing embroidered gowns of past era, lifted her lorgnette to survey the scene. Liane was suddenly overwhelmed by maidenly shyness. She did not know all these people and those she did not know seemed new and strange, removed from their familiar surroundings. She began to feel panic-stricken about her job. Would she be clever enough to talk to people as briskly as she ought, to make change and take charge of all that money? She felt decided qualms.

Elsie's greeting was reassuring. "Hello, kid, how're things?" Yes, Elsie was nice and friendly. Liane's heart warmed to her. True, she was rather snooty at times, liked to ask personal questions, and liked to pry. But Liane felt that her simple friendliness made up for all that.

"We don't begin until Thursday night," Elsie volunteered. "The old man" (she made a disrespectful face at Vernon's back) "is having it because the velvet curtains arrived two inches too long. The decorators have to dash out to-morrow and take a truck in them. And the lighting system has gone blooey out here in the wilds. Elsie seemed pleased, on the whole, at this delay.

Liane went around to the front of the small theatre and peered at the electricians. They were making a great do, hawling back and forth at each other. Carpenters were hammering. A tall fair young man in flannels was supervising the work on the stage. He gave Liane one fleeting, curious glance.

"Cut, isn't it?" Elsie inquired. "Old Lady Cleopatra is supposed to be our angel but I suspect she's not paying for the whole business or Vernon wouldn't be so upset. I think he has a stake in it himself. Cleopatra just supplies the house and lot, not the trimmings, I think."

As the two girls waited the young man in white abandoned his labors and approached. "You know Miss Barrett, don't you, Elsie said. It was her customary form of introduction. She knew Liane had never set eyes on her before. "Clive is instructing the decorators' men," Elsie explained to Liane, "and having a most horrible time of it."

Just then one of the electricians bawled, "Mr. Cleopatra!" loudly and raucously, and the fair young man excused himself. Liane regarded his receding back with something like awe. "Is that who he is?" she murmured.

Elsie laughed, showing her lovely white teeth. "The one and only," she replied. "Mamma's boy and papa's heir. Didn't take me long, did it?"

Elsie was beautiful in a lush and bovine way. She was faultlessly and naturally blonde. She had a figure in the old-fashioned sense of the word and she moved as if she were always conscious that she presented a graceful picture.

"I'm not so sure mamma likes it, either," Elsie continued. "Mamma thinks the actress from the city may turn out to be a bold, bad hussey."

"Oh, she couldn't think that about you!" Liane put in, quite sure.

"Couldn't she, though?" Elsie giggled, vastly amused at Liane's championship.

How Dumb!

First She—Hasn't a dime? Why, I thought you told me he was rich!

Second She—No, I told you he had more money than sense.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Saddle Goose

By HOWARD R. GARIS

One day, when Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, was playing in the hammock under the alamy trees, Uncle Wiggily heard her singing a queer little song. It sounded like this:

"Swing swing saddle a goose
The Fox flew over the Mother Hen's house."

As she sang, Baby Bunty swung herself in the hammock. What made Uncle Wiggily twinkle his pink nose, however, was not Bunty's swinging, but her singing.

"That is a very funny song, Baby Bunty," said the old rabbit gentleman. "In the first place I don't see how you could put a saddle on a goose. I know they put a saddle on a horse, but now you take a goose and put a saddle on him, why that's different."

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily," said Baby Bunty with a laugh, "you don't really saddle a goose. It's only a funny old song that came out of a country called Ireland a long time ago. I heard my grandmother sing it and maybe I don't get it just right."

"But are you sure about saddle a goose?" asked the rabbit uncle.

"Oh, yes, that's in the song," said Baby Bunty. "And there is more to it."

"More to the song?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, yes, answered Bunty as she swayed to and fro in the hammock. "Shall I sing it for you?"

"If you please," answered Mr. Longears.

So Bunty sang the remainder of the queer little Irish song. She did not get it just right, but what matter?

8-21

"I'll take it home to my den."

It was a jolly old tune and Bunty was a jolly little orphan rabbit. So she sang:

"Swing swing saddle a goose
The Fox flew over the Mother Hen's house."

She counted her chickens, one by one.

But where was the little speckled one?

"Well, that's a very fine song, Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily as he laughed. "But I want to ask you some questions. In the first place what is a 'house'?"

"A 'house' is the same as a house, in Irish," said Baby Bunty. "You have to say 'house' to make it rhyme with goose."

"Oh, I see," said Mr. Longears. "Well, you know, Bunty, a Fox can't fly over a Mother Hen's house or even a 'house'."

"I know that," said Bunty. "But a Fox can jump, and jumping over a Mother Hen's house is much like flying. Besides, if you can saddle a goose, you can make a Fox fly over a 'house'."

"So you can," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "So you can," he laughed. "But what," he asked, "about the Mother Hen counting her chickens one by one and where was the little speckled one?"

"Oh," said Bunty, "Mother Hen always counts her chickens. I guess, and maybe this Mother Hen in the song couldn't find her little chicken that was all speckled with spots and maybe the Fox caught it."

"Oh, I hope not that!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily.

"I hope not, also," said Bunty. "But Uncle Wiggily," she said, "I know it's only an old Irish song, and maybe it isn't true or maybe I didn't sing it just right."

"Let us hope so," spoke Mr. Longears.

Yesterday evening Councillor Hagan secured consent of the council to payment of half the cost of repairs to the McHugh ditch in Ward Six up to a maximum contribution of $125. All above $250 must be paid by property owners benefited.

Charged with advertising himself as a foot specialist without being a duly registered chiropodist, a retailer appeared in the City Police Court this morning. He was remanded for one week when City Prosecutor C. L. Harkin explained to the court he determined whether or not the retailer's actions came within the meaning of the Chiropodists' Act as there was some dispute on the point.

The Saanich tax sale list now includes 265 parcels. The municipal council was yesterday evening informed. Most of the properties are in the urban area and many are of substantial value. The largest amount due is $689 on the Douglas Street property. A number of pieces of acreage, ranging up to thirty acres in area, are also included in the list. ### HITCH-HIKERS CARRY LETTERS

Brassier and Brown to Deliver
Missive to Agent-General in London

William Brassier and James Brown, who propose to hitch-hike their way to England, will leave Victoria early next week, bearing a letter from Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, to F. P. Burden, Agent-General for British Columbia in London. Both men have been unemployed here for several months. They expect to ride from Calgary to Montreal by cattle train, and get to England by shipping as stock tenders on a cattle steamer.

Brassier is well known in local labor circles. At the last federal election he announced himself as a candidate in Victoria on a United Empire platform, but withdrew before nomination. He was a member of the Royal Irish Constabulary in 1921, and is a native of Margate, England. His companion, Brown, is also an Englishman, having come to Canada nine years ago from Bristol.

The pair propose to distribute literature for the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, and expect to be equipped by George I. Warren, Publicity Commissioner, with an open letter of introduction to the officials of all Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade in Canada, and also to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London.

Brassier states that the pair will seek the patronage of Lord Beaverbrook for a walking tour through Europe.

CIVIL SERVANTS CONSIDER HELP

Deputy Ministers in Session at Parliament Buildings With Relief Committee

Suffering and Want Increasing;
Ready and Generous
Response Wanted

Provincial civil servants are giving consideration to a request for support from the Victoria Citizens' Unemployed Fund. Sir Frank Bernard, Alderman J. L. Mara and Fred Landsberg conferred with deputy ministers at a meeting held yesterday in the Parliament Buildings.

P. deN. Walker, deputy provincial secretary, who presided, assured the delegation that civil servants were not unmindful of the serious economic condition which existed, and said that the deputy ministers would remain in conference and consider what steps should be taken to secure the co-operation of members of the civil service.

City firemen also, will discuss the matter of financial participation. The objects of the fund were explained to them by Fred Landsberg and George McGregor yesterday morning, and at the conclusion of the meeting were promised that the firefighters would give the matter careful consideration and acquaint the citizens' committee with their decision.

"The country is suffering, and want are increasing," a representative of the committee informed The Times to-day. "One man, with three children under his care, who was certified as medically unfit to perform municipal relief work, and whose wife is ill, was discovered in most distressing circumstances. The only food in the house when the visitor called were three loaves, half a cup of sugar and three eggs, which had been supplied by our more wealthy citizens could realize the amount of suffering that exists, and understand what that suffering means to unemployed men and women and their families. I am convinced there would be a ready and generous response."

Financial help and workers are urgently needed. Any citizen willing to assist is asked to call at headquarters, View and Broad Streets, or telephone Garden 1723. Contributions may be left at the office with the treasurer, E. C. Smith, City Hall.

FEWER ATTEND NORMAL SCHOOL

Applications Not Expected to Exceed Limit By Many at Victoria Institution

Many Regulations and Cutting of Mileage Grants
Cause Reduction

New regulations governing the admission of candidates to the Normal School here, drawn up when the Department of Education decided to limit the number of students at the school to 140, appeared to have accomplished their aims to-day.

With registrations closing this evening, only 138 candidates had filed applications for admission. These, with one or two others from outside points, are expected to bring up the number of applicants to a little over 140, the new enrollment limit. But with many of those who have filed their entries uncertain whether or not they will be expected to bring up the number enrolled was expected to be considerably below that amount.

Word from Vancouver, received at the Department of Education, indicated that the school would have its full quota of students.

Withdrawal of the mileage grant usually made to teachers who traveled to the local institution from distant points was seen as one of the causes of the falling off in applications. In previous years, it is understood, such candidates received five cents a mile from the department for the distance they had to travel to attend the school.

Other complications have added to the complications involved in determining who will be permitted to attend. Through the limitation programme, it was necessary for the department to make provision to select only those students of higher qualifications for enrollment. This is thought to have prevented some, who were uncertain as to their merit, from sending in applications.

Moreover, among those who have already applied are many who have not yet learned whether or not they have passed supplemental examinations in other schools. Some of these will therefore be unable to gain admittance if they are unsuccessful in securing required credits.

In the near future a special committee will go over all applications submitted and determine which students will be permitted to attend the school.

Although no further forms will be sent out, those already distributed will be received during the next day or two.

Ideas Offered To Beautify Capital City

Suggestions Received From Victoria Citizens in Response to Request of Capital City Beautification Committee.

Suggestions for the beautification of Victoria as the capital city of British Columbia have been received by the joint commission on beautification. The suggestions should be sent to George I. Warren, secretary, at the Chamber of Commerce. Some more suggestions received by citizens follow:

"Develop the Dallas Road and Beacon Hill area. As soon as a definite well thought out plan has been arranged the first thing to be done would be to lay water on this area. This entails almost all the money being spent in labor as the city has a supply of pipe on hand and it is a class of work that anybody can be put to."

"The next thing to be dealt with is the frontage on the sea. This area could be well and easily beautified by men who know their business by planting trees and shrubs. Some are known to thrive in a more or less exposed area."

"A board walk along the waterfront would not be in keeping with the surroundings. Its vintage is somewhat antique as it originated in the crinoline and bustle period, and would be a discreditable anachronism in the city. Some people have suggested a pier. We have a very fine pier in the shape of the breakwater and all it requires is a handrail on each side."

"I would offer the suggestion that means be found to supply the golf courses in Oak Bay with an unlimited supply of water and at a reduced rate. 'No one will deny that these courses are outstanding beauties in the city and in addition have a very positive value for drawing the tourist. The present dried-up condition of the courses is a disgrace. A very few courses, due solely to lack of water, is most regrettable.'"

"Would it not be wise to preserve and improve the beauty spots in the city and in addition have a very positive value for drawing the tourist. The present dried-up condition of the courses is a disgrace. A very few courses, due solely to lack of water, is most regrettable.'"

"Among other suggested Capital City improvements, I think a bathing pool at Cadboro Bay might very well be considered. There are several acres of backwash in the bay which are flooded at very high tides. A large salt-water swimming pool might be constructed there and the earth and sand and gravel, the balance of the land, and making a beautiful little park of it."

"Warmer salt water bathing is very badly needed, this tide could be entered at low tide. The whole of the work on this would be labor, which should be the main consideration in any work undertaken in this way at the present time. A very beautiful and attractive place could be made out of this on what is now absolutely valueless land."

SKIM MILK NOT WASTE PRODUCT

Medical Health Officer Says
Wastage of Such Food
Is Crime

"There seems to be an unfortunate misconception as to the food value of skim milk," Dr. Richard Felton, medical health officer, declared this morning.

"At the present time it is necessary to rectify this because any wastage of good cheap food is little short of a crime. The misconception has arisen, undoubtedly, from the custom of using skim milk largely for pigs and poultry, but one should remember that pigs and poultry are also given perfect food, solid grain foods, and no one thinks of alluding to them as useless waste products."

The fact is that skim milk is nothing more or less than milk devoid of fat. The protein and carbohydrate values are unaltered and the numerous salts and vitamins are not appreciably affected in the skimming and separation process. Milk—and skim milk—contains the following salts in well-balanced proportions: Lime, magnesia, potash, soda, phosphorus, chlorine, sulphur and iron. All these are essential, in certain small quantities, for human growth and maintenance. Of the vitamins necessary to maintain life, A, B and C are well represented. A certain amount of vitamin A is lost with the cream, and probably most of vitamin D which later, however, is not present in any great quantity even in whole milk. The lack of vitamin C in whole milk is a deficiency of these two can at any rate be made up for in butter, eggs and green vegetables. Whole milk, as a food, is acknowledged to be the most perfect single food available. No mammals can be reared without it, and it is the only individual food which will sustain life for any length of time. It contains protein, carbohydrates and fats, salts and vitamins, in ideal proportions and in sufficiently fluid form for proper digestion.

NOT PERFECT
"It is not suggested for a moment that skim milk is of an equal value. Skim milk is imperfect as it lacks the cream or fat and in consequence the caloric value, gallon for gallon, is about half that of whole milk. The lack of fat could be largely made up by the addition to the diet of butter, meat fats, eggs and other fatty foods."

"It is not argued that skim milk should be made the sole article of food, or even the principal food in the daily diet. It is, however, necessary to realize that skim milk provides an excellent addition to the daily food, both of children and adults. Complaints have been made of its keeping qualities."

"Dairies that make regular sales of this article, should see that it is properly cooled, properly handled and properly stored. It should keep as well as whole milk."

"It is true that in the process of separating the cream by some of the large dairies, the skim milk, not having any regular sale, is not cooled in the same way that whole milk is; it is not taken at once by farmers or poultry and hog dealers for animal feeding it is usually wasted."

"An endeavor will be made this fall by one of our charitable associations to avoid this waste by collecting and making available to those needing it any surplus milk from our city dairies. The public may feel assured that such a supply will be as carefully handled as our whole-milk supply and advantage should be taken of it when available."

Saanich delegates to the annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, to be held at West Westminster next month, will be Rev. William G. Church, Councilman Dennis Hoare and Clerk R. P. Gervill. The selection was made yesterday evening by the municipal council.

HARDWOOD MEN SHOW OPTIMISM

Believe Industry About to Start on Upswing After Depression

Business in hardwood is about to start on the upswing, according to the general opinion voiced by Pacific Coast Hardwood Dealers' Association members now meeting in the Empress Hotel. A marked improvement of conditions within the next few months was forecast.

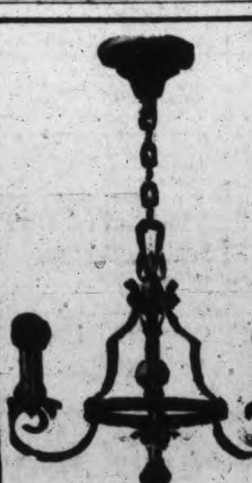

The association, which includes representatives in the business all over the Pacific Coast from San Diego as far north as Victoria and Vancouver, opened its regular sessions in the hotel this morning with a private discussion on matters pertaining to relations between wholesale and retail merchants. Yesterday evening they gathered for a dinner in the hotel to hear an address by B. C. Nicholas. In the temporary absence of R. Sanda, of Seattle, president, J. Fife Smith, of Vancouver, Canadian representative, presided at the meeting.

The dealers see an optimistic note in the increasing interest played by home-builders in finishing their dwellings artistically. Whether extremely expensive or moderate, the homes of to-day are being equipped more and more with hardwood flooring.

Further optimistic viewpoints were enjoyed by the members from the United States following the perusal of shipping data at their disposal during their trips north. Figures indicated that lumber shipping, particularly in hardwood, would increase, while information from eastern manufacturers also pointed to an increased impetus to the hardwood market, different members stated.

Among the visitors is Henry Swafford, of Los Angeles, who is an owner of a large tract of land in the Highlands.

Appointment of John Cough, B.A., as assistant master at the Victoria Normal School, is announced in the B.C. Gazette to-day.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—Stock prices were generally soft at the close of the Montreal Stock Exchange to-day. Montreal Power, International Nickel, Brazilian, Shawinigan, Oxychem, Canada Shiping, and a number of others were fractionally up at the close, following a fairly heavy selling wave towards the end of the session. C.P.R. sold down to 21½, within three-eighths of its record low.

New York, Aug. 21.—The stock market finally broke out of its narrow trading range with a decisive downturn in the late trading to-day.

Discusses
Ex-Wife
As Cook
For Husband

The Man Who Hired His Divorced Wife as a Cook Will Probably Live With Her Henceforth in Perfect Peace—For He Will Need to Behave to Keep His Cook, and She to Hold a Good Job.

THE NEWSPAPERS have recently told the story of a man who got a divorce from his wife and immediately hired her as a cook. Thus simply was solved two of the great problems of divorce—how the woman shall support herself and how the man will get his food prepared the way he likes it and his buttons sewed on.

No doubt this arrangement furnishes a succulent morsel of gossip which the neighborhood in which this couple lives is rolling over its tongue; for the traditional attitude of a divorced husband and wife is held to be one of bitter hatred and rancor and reviling. The correct etiquette of the occasion is supposed to be for them to fly as far from each other as is possible and to pray heaven that he or she may never set eyes again on the villain who has wrecked his or her happiness.

But in actuality few divorced couples feel any animosity toward each other. Often they like each other and appreciate each other's good qualities far more after they are separated than they did while they were living together. They would even like to be friends except that public opinion forces them into a pose of enmity. For Mrs. Grundy would raise her eyebrows in horror if Mary Jones was seen having a pleasant conversation with her former husband, Sam Snooks, and the sewing society would call an extra session to discuss the matter if Sam Snooks took his ex-wife, Mary Jones, out to dinner and the theatre.

Yet all that was the matter with Mary Jones and Sam Snooks was that they were not congenial and didn't suit each other and couldn't hit it off together. Each likes the other enormously as a friend, but not as a husband or wife, and if that relationship could be eliminated they could get along peacefully and amiably enough and even enjoy each other.

For the thing that seems to be chiefly the matter with marriage is the sense of possession it gives to many people and the right to tyrannize over the party of the other part that they feel that it confers upon them. That is why most husbands and wives treat each other with a lack of politeness and consideration that they show to no other human being on earth and say things to each other that they would never dream of saying to anyone else. To the outside world they are suave, courteous, tactful, blarneying, but at home they are rude, ill-tempered and tell each other home truths with a brutal disregard of each other's feelings.

There is nothing else quite so pathetic as the fact that the average husband and wife ask nothing of each other except to be treated as well as he or she would if he or she were a perfect stranger. John Jones would go about beating upon the cymbals and calling up heaven to witness the success of his marriage if he had a wife who never nagged him, who never reminded him of his faults, who recognized that an adult male who is capable of running a business and supporting a family is entitled to a little personal liberty and who nimbly side-stepped the topics that were as a red rag to a mad bull to him, who dolled herself up for him and made a conscious effort to keep him entertained and amused and who jolled him along.

And Mary Jones would spend her time on her knees thanking God for having bestowed upon her His choicest blessing, if she had a husband who noticed what she had on and told her that she got prettier every year, who complimented her good dinners and praised her for her thrift, who took her out to places of amusement now and then without having to be badgered into it, who handed her out his best line of conversation of an evening instead of grunting at her when she spoke and who generally made her feel that it was a pleasure and an honor to be married to her.

Why matrimony should have such a deleterious effect on people's manners nobody knows. It merely does. Husbands and wives save a peculiarly offensive brand of rudeness for each other and reserve their choicest insults for home consumption. No woman, for instance, ever tells any other man but her husband that she has heard his pet story so often that she will shriek if she hears it again or that she considers him a fat old nitwit or twits him with not making as much money as some other man.

No man feels privileged to call any other woman except his wife a fool and to tell her that she doesn't know what she is talking about. This pleasant little repartee is reserved for the family circle.

It is because husbands and wives think that marriage gives them some inexplicable right to be mean and hateful to each other that makes marriage so often a failure. For it is only husbands and wives who feel that they do not have to bother to keep each other placated. No woman "sasses" her boss as she does her husband or takes the chances on losing a good job as she does on losing her wedding ring. No man expects any other woman but his wife to work without wages or says the things to his secretary, who can get up and leave, that he says to his wife.

The chances are that the couple mentioned at the beginning of this article who fought their way to the divorce court, but who emerged from it with the wife employed as the cook to her ex-husband because he liked her pies, will live together henceforth like suckling doves, because, no longer being married, they will have to try to please each other for the man to keep a good cook and the woman to keep a good job.

And in this situation there is food for thought for all husbands and wives.

Into the Depths of Space

THE GOAL IN SIGHT

Paul Dawson enjoyed every moment of the rocket trip, but had it not been for the presence of Mrs. Elson, his enjoyment would have been less. Mrs. Elson took the place of a mother to him. His own mother had died five years before, and now, for the first time in all these years, he knew the care and thoughtfulness of a mother. Often Mrs. Elson took part in games with him and her daughter, Mariene. A favorite game was "playing catch," a pastime which dated back thousands of years.

"We are getting near Alpha Borea," cried Paul.

Onward, onward through space! The rocket kept speeding toward its goal—a planet near the star Alpha Borea. The atom-engine was working perfectly, and there was plenty of fuel. Since there was no air in this region between the stars, there were no winds and no storms.

One day Roger Dunn, the pilot, called Paul to the control room, and said to him:

"Would you like to look through this telescope? An exciting moment in our trip is approaching!"

Paul looked through the telescope, his eyes eager for whatever sight he might behold.

"What do you see?" asked the pilot.

"I see a round ball of fire which looks like the sun, except that it has a bluish color instead of yellow."

"What do you see near the ball of fire?"

"Three round objects which give off faint light."

"Yes," said Roger Dunn, "you are now passing upon the star Alpha Borea and upon three planets which go around it. In less than six hours, we shall land on one of the planets!"

"I'm going to tell my father!" shouted Paul as he left the pilot's quarters. In a few seconds he reached the bedroom occupied by his father and himself.

"We are getting near Alpha Borea!" cried Paul. "In less than six hours we are going to land on a planet!"

As the hours passed, excitement grew aboard the rocket.

"We have chosen the largest of the planets as a landing place," Professor Richardson announced at length. "Our tests prove that it has air and water. Whether it is the home of people, we cannot say just yet, but we shall know before long."
